

Carly Fiorina on God's GPS

"Every time I turned on the GPS in my car, I would marvel at the human ingenuity that built a system that keeps precise track of where we are, knows when we deviate off course, and provides clear instructions as to how to return to the right path. We may ignore these instructions—we may even become annoyed at the voice telling us to turn right in a thousand feet. Nevertheless, guidance is provided. If human beings can do this, then certainly God knows everything that is happening in the universe—not in broad management strokes, but in minute, personal detail. —Carly Fiorina, Rising to the Challenge
